

Eversgerd's "Werds"

May 23-27
Last Edition

This is the last week of the year! I do not have specific subject lessons this week so that's why you do not see each subject listed on this edition.

This has been quite a year. Lots of ups and downs. This year had the most snow days, ever!! I believe it was a record! For those who were counting, it was 9 snow days. We still accomplished what we could considering they were right before ISAT!

Way to go on the performance at the talent show! The class did a great job on their song at the end. Caroline and Alexa did a great routine, and Haley sang like a bird!! Don't forget that you may come in on Wednesdays during the summer to take AR tests, just like last summer.

Next week goes as follows:

Monday-pretty much a normal day, you will have music instead of on Tuesday, no SOAR, and we will attend the library, so bring any books that need to be returned.

Tuesday-award and graduation practice

Wednesday-clean up day, please bring a bucket and some soap, a rag, and a bag to put your stuff in

Thursday-Field Day, 1:40 dismissal

Friday-last day, student council will be announced, report cards given, 8:45 dismissal

News For Next Year: The 6th grade homeroom teacher is Mr. Rakers. You will also be dressing for PE, so get your uniforms. If you haven't heard, the 5th graders and I will be moving up in the Jr. High wing. I will be the 5th grade Language Arts and Literature teacher, 6th grade Language Arts and Literature teacher, 7th grade Language Arts teacher, and 5th grade quarter class. I will be the 5th grade homeroom as well. As a 6th grader, there is still SOAR, so no split classes for reading like it's been in the past.

HAVE A WONDERFUL AND SAFE SUMMER!
